Alumni Contributions to Institute of Language Teaching

This report delves into the multifaceted ways in which alumni of the Institute of Language Teaching (ILT) contribute to the institute, enriching the educational experience for current students. From motivation and curriculum development to community engagement and financial support, ILT alumni play a pivotal role in shaping the academic journey of the institute.

1. Motivating Freshly Enrolled Students:

In the initial stages of the last academic year, ILT took a proactive step by inviting alumni, Kishan Bhatt and Lakshita Thakur, to motivate and inspire freshly enrolled students. Their firsthand experiences and success stories served as powerful motivators, instilling a sense of purpose and determination among the new trainees. This initiative aimed to bridge the gap between academic learning and real-world application, fostering a positive and aspirational learning environment.

2. Involvement in In-House Curriculum Development:

Recognizing the importance of alumni input in shaping the institute's curriculum, ILT established a practice of including alumni representatives in the in-house curriculum committee. This ensures that the curriculum remains relevant, up-to-date, and aligned with industry trends. The inclusion of alumni perspectives enhances the practical applicability of the courses offered, preparing students for the challenges of the real world.

3. Organization of Various Activities Beyond Classroom:

ILT alumni, Mira Joshi and Yukta Dave, demonstrated their commitment to community service by actively participating in activities outside the classroom.

They supported trainees in community service initiatives, such as the development of a playhouse at Rashtriyashala. Their involvement not only contributed to the local community but also provided students with a hands-on understanding of social responsibility, reinforcing the holistic nature of education at ILT.

4. Support for Curriculum Delivery:

In specific subject areas like Education Management, ILT leveraged the expertise of alumni such as Riddhi Sonpal. Riddhi shared her valuable personal experiences in the field, enriching the learning experience for students. This real-world perspective not only enhances the theoretical understanding of the subject matter but also provides students with insights that textbooks alone cannot offer.

5. Student Mentoring:

Kamal Desai, an alumni who successfully passed the Teacher Eligibility Test (TET), took on the role of mentoring current trainees preparing for the same exam. His guidance not only facilitated better exam preparation but also served as a source of motivation and inspiration. This mentorship program highlights the enduring support system that ILT alumni provide to current students, fostering a culture of collaboration and shared success.

6. Financial Contribution:

Several ILT trainees, including Rutvi Bhatt, Foram Acharya, Yukta Dave, Viral Kambalia, and Bhumika Goswami, exhibited their commitment to academic excellence by making financial contributions. They not only supported their own education but also pooled resources to subscribe to esteemed journals like the Journal of the Indian Academy of Applied Psychology, AIJITE, Educational and Psychological Research, Indian Journal of Psychometry and Education, Psycho-Lingua, Indian Journal of Psychometry and Education,

Indian Psychological Review, and The Asian Journal of Psychology and Education. This collective effort demonstrates a strong sense of community and shared responsibility among ILT alumni.

7. Placement Advice and Support:

Recognizing the importance of a smooth transition from academia to the professional world, ILT alumni actively engage with trainees before they embark on campus drives. Alumni provide valuable insights, assist in resume preparation, and even help create placement brochures with QR code resumes. This comprehensive support system equips students with the tools and knowledge needed to navigate the competitive job market successfully.

Conclusion:

The contributions of ILT alumni extend far beyond the traditional role of former students. Their involvement in motivating, mentoring, and supporting current students enriches the educational experience at ILT, fostering a culture of continuous learning and community engagement. By actively participating in curriculum development, community service, and financial contributions, ILT alumni play a pivotal role in shaping the institute's legacy and preparing students for success in their chosen fields.

The ILT College prides itself on fostering a dynamic and engaged community of alumni who play an active role in shaping the educational landscape within the institution. One of the key areas where alumni make a significant impact is in practice teaching, where their real-world experiences and insights enrich the learning environment for current students. Alumni often return to the college to conduct expert sessions, sharing their expertise and industry knowledge with both faculty and students. This not only provides valuable exposure to the latest trends and developments but also bridges the gap between academia and practical application. Furthermore, the alumni network serves as a robust support system for students, offering mentorship, career guidance, and networking opportunities. This collaborative approach ensures that ILT College remains at the forefront of educational excellence, benefiting from the ongoing contributions and dedication of its alumni.
